

Human Rights Internship Opening with Coalition for Human Rights in Development
Fall 2017

The Coalition for Human Rights in Development is seeking exceptionally motivated and organized graduate students and undergraduate students for the opportunity to gain experience in human rights and international development advocacy. The internship is located in Washington, DC. Time commitment is flexible, though a minimum of 20 hours a week is required. Positions start roughly late August or early September for the Fall semester, with a minimum commitment of 10 weeks. The internship is unpaid, however the Coalition is happy to work with those accepted to seek course credit for their work.

The Coalition

The Coalition for Human Rights in Development is a global coalition of social movements, civil society organizations, and grassroots groups working to ensure that all development finance institutions respect human rights. The Coalition works to support members' advocacy at the local, national, and international level. The Coalition is currently engaged in advocacy and mobilization to strengthen human rights protections at various development banks, the development of tools for human rights impact assessment, a campaign on human rights defenders, research and analysis on development finance and human rights, engagement with community groups, NGOs and human rights institutions, as well as outreach and coalition-building. For more information, see www.rightsindevelopment.org.

Responsibilities and Qualifications

Human Rights Intern: The Human Rights Intern supports the Coalition's advocacy activities, including providing administrative and logistical support for events and secretariat operations, discrete research and writing on trends in development finance and human rights, support with social media communications, and attending and reporting on Coalition meetings and events. Successful applicants generally are detail-oriented and very organized, possess excellent writing skills, and have a strong interest in human rights and/or development.

Language skills in French, Spanish or Portuguese are beneficial but not required. The Coalition actively seeks applicants with diverse backgrounds. To apply, please send a cover letter, resume, and one short writing or work sample in English to contact@rightsindevelopment.org with "Human Rights Internship" as the subject line. Please include your anticipated start date and time availability in the first paragraph of your cover letter. Applications will be reviewed and decided upon on a rolling basis. No phone calls please.
